U. S. S. Mississippi Tragedy Remains Mystery

INQUIRY BOARD INVESTIGATING

Commander Praises Crew Of Ship For Bravery

ADVANCE THEORY

Lieutenant Believes Foul Bore Caused Explosion

SAN PEDRO, Cal., June 14.—Below deck in officers' quarters aboard the U. S. S. Mississippi today the former board of inquiry met to hear details of a story of traditions, heroism shown by men of the navy when death strikes.

Officers and men were questioned, but from each was heard nothing but terms of highest praise for 43 members of the dreadnaught complement who went to their death Thursday afternoon in an explosion within gun turret number two.

The deepest commendation of all came from Captain W. D. Brotherton, commanding officer of the Mississippi.

"I have no blame to attach to anyone or anything," he told the board at the opening hearing. "I have nothing but the greatest praise for them all. They all did their duty to the best of their ability, everyone of them and the captain's voice choked as he buried his face in his arms and wept.

Exact cause of the tragedy still is more or less a mystery and may remain so. Lieutenant Commander Belucke, chief summary officer of the Mississippi's crew, told the board his "first impression was that it was caused by a foul bore, in spite of the fact that this was a splendidly drilled and well instructed crew, with an experienced and most reliable gun captain whose duty it is to see if the bore is clear.

May Never Hear Main Testimony
More definite information regarding this possible explanation may be secured from Chief Turret Captain F. J. Ryne, but there is some possibility his testimony will never be heard. Ryne is now dead on the hospital ship Relief, his face and head shrouded with bandages and his body torn with pain.

The death list in the tragedy still remains at 43. Twelve in the Relief are gravely injured, but still clinging to life. Condition of some of these still is critical," navy physicians said.

HOUSTON, June 14.—Barricading himself in the smoker of the outbound S. A. and A. P. train from Houston last night, Stanley Novotny, formerly of Chicago, attempted to kill himself with a knife, according to officers.

Conductor Crow stopped the train and telephoned Houston police to send an ambulance and officers to the scene. Train officers broke down the door of the smoker and found Novotny, with a jagged gash in his throat and both wrists badly cut.

With his wife and three children, Novotny was enroute to Hallettsville where he had been promised work. None of the family except a small daughter could speak English. The family is Bohemian.

The child explained to the officers that her father had tried to kill himself because he thought the conductor was taking him to jail.

Physicians say the man has but little chance for recovery.

FIGHT TO BREAK WILL OF WOMAN

Spectacular Adventure Revealed in Court Suit SOUGHT THRILLS.

Charge Adventureous Insane From Use of Drugs

LIBERTY, Mo., June 14.—The battle to break the will of Mrs. Lilla Woods, leaving an estate of $1,000,000 to Captain Harry Zittum, once an interpreter in a London police court, today revealed a story of spectacular spending by a woman in search of adventure.

Witnesses told how Mrs. Davies, seeking thrills in Europe, fell under a "hypnotic influence" of Zittum. They declared he encouraged her in the use of drugs, to which she had been addicted for years.

The wealthy woman, to appoint him as her secretary, and then while under the influence of drugs, made a will leaving him her entire estate.

George Weidman Davies, an opera singer of St. Louis, the woman's fourth husband, and her two daughters, Miss Ruth Ruby and Miss James Kemper of Kansas City, brought the suit to have the will broken.

Trustees of the woman's estate said she had an income in excess of $1,000 a month. Her physician said she was insane from the use of drugs and alcohol.

The will favoring Zittum was made in London May 8, 1922, and Mrs. Davies died soon after.

The child explained to the officers that her father had tried to kill himself because he thought the conductor was taking him to jail.

Fiery General From Ohio Overshadows Coolidge Interest

By ROBERT J. BENDER, United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 14.—For the first time the presidential campaign this year is very likely to center on the vice presidential candidates.

It is natural, of course, because of the convention fight in Cleveland. General Davies, the vice presidential nominee has overshadowed President Coolidge in news interest for the moment. Newspapers through the middlewest give dominant space in stories and cartoons to the fiery general who is to run with President Coolidge. The latter is scarcely mentioned.

An Independent Race?
The independent candidacy of Robert M. La Follette attains its objective, there is more than a bare possibility of his getting enough electoral votes to throw the presidential contest into the house of congress where his forces hold the balance of power today.

The occupancy by Davies of the center of the republican stage will be accentuated of course by the fact that Coolidge will make a very limited personal campaign, while Davies, until the G. O. P. campaign managers direct otherwise, may be expected to swing from one end of the country to the other hurling his effective verbal shell fire all over the place.

Law Can't Touch G's Bootleggers in Houston

HOUSTON, Texas, June 14.—There are bootleggers and then there are other bootleggers.

The city fathers of Houston sometime ago decreed that the selling of gasoline on Sunday was taboo, at least within the city limits. But the Houston Auto Relief club thought differently and following the arrest of officials, the case went to court. The club won.

Street orders have gone forth to patrolmen to arrest all violators of the "gasoline blue law" and the relief club is reaping a rich harvest, competitors who are forced to close claim.

Nevertheless the club continues to dispense the precious fluid on Sunday and thereupon hikes another story which it all probability the courts will have to settle.

These operated a battery station in the basement of the Mallory Opera House here. Attorneys for Brown may make an appeal, it was said today.

"I have nothing to say until I am formally advised of the nomination," Dawes said when asked for a statement. Dawes was in splendid spirits, greeting everyone who met him with a cordial "hello." Heavy wreaths of smoke poured from the famous "upside down" pipe.

Class Mates With Film
Dawes and one of two class mates from Marietta College accompanied him. They were H. C. Butler, Dallas, Texas, and R. R. Lloyd, Chicago. Both were graduated with Dawes in the class of 1884. Newspaper photographers, who have previously found difficulty in getting Dawes to pose, were surprised when he consented readily today and allowed them to take his picture in a variety of poses.

Due to a misunderstanding as to the time of Dawes' arrival, members of his family were not at the station. The Dawes party waited for their coming.

"Attending Business"
From the station, Dawes said, he would go directly to his office to "attend to a pile of business." He will later go out to his suburban home where neighbors have planned a big celebration.

Dawes received a tremendous ovation when he walked into the Central Trust Company, the bank of which he is chairman of the Board of Directors. A large crowd gathered at the entrance, shouting and whistling. Bank clerks, stenographers and bank attendants added to the din.

Dawes smiled, bowed tipped his hat and shook hands with scores of friends and business associates.

Laundry Finds Diamond Links Lost By Owner

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 14.—Soap, the base of the small boy's existence, is not held in such horror by the laundries.

Occasionally the monotony of the laundry worker's life is broken by the finding of valuable articles in clothing being laundered, says John A. Sexton, as in an incident sometime ago when a wealthy business man reported the loss of a very valuable set of diamond simulated cuff links. Police were put on the case and followed many clues to no avail. Several days after the loss was reported one of the laundry girls found the now famous cuff links in a shirt being prepared for the wash.

Mondays and Tuesdays are the big days for the laundries the same as for the housekeeper who does her own washing.

The hundreds of detectives and police hunting for the bandits have been reinforced by several hundred citizens who have been pressed into service to search the numerous lake resorts between Chicago and Milwaukee.

TEXAN INVENTOR OF 'DEATH RAY'

Victoria Man Made Machine Melting Metal

VICTORIA, Texas, June 14.—Accounts from England and France telling of the great destructive power of the "death ray" invention of General H. G. Wells, recently to the minds of residents of Victoria a similar machine demonstrated here during the war by Frank Weiss, expert physicist now employed in Vienna.

In the presence of several prominent citizens of Victoria, Weiss demonstrated a transformer which generated electricity from the air without any outside connections. It was built of magnetic insulated wire in coils with Swedish iron for magnetic coils. Two of these machines built by Weiss and placed about eight feet apart, destroyed everything placed between them, melting and crumbling steel plates and reducing pieces of wood to ashes instantly.

Weiss destroyed the machines immediately after he built and tested them, and in the process of construction, burned his arms and body severely. His assistant, J. J. Sloan, now proprietor of a local garage, was also badly burned while winding the coils. Weiss, a native of Germany, offered his invention to the war department upon condition that he be given his citizenship in this country.

War department experts examined Weiss' invention and according to reports, were astonished by its possibilities but no action toward its adoption was ever made.

FIRE COST MORE THAN SCHOOLS

State Loss Exceeds Expenditures for Education

AUSTIN, June 14.—It has cost residents of the state more in fire losses for the last four years than it has for the maintenance of their entire educational system, according to statistics which State Fire Marshal C. W. Tiller has compiled.

Tiller's figures reveal that the fire loss in Texas for the last four years was approximately $15,000,000 a year while the appropriation for the public schools of the state has been only $16,933,022.50 each year.

Other interesting statistics and figures in the office of the state fire marshal show that in the last three years 720 persons in Texas have burned to death; that the average fire loss in the state each year for the last four years would build a highway from Texas to El Paso, and another from Amarillo to Galveston with enough money remaining to build a concrete road 18 feet wide from Dallas to Austin.

Further statistics in Tiller's office reveal that there is a fire every minute somewhere in the United States; one dwelling house burns every four minutes; one farm house every seven minutes; four warehouses every day; five churches every day; five school houses every day; 15 hotels every day, and 40 humans lose their lives in fires each day.

Battle of the Ballots On in Corpus Christi

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, June 14.—Nueces county is in line to win the record for "safely keeping" election ballots.

Owing to alleged election frauds at the last general election in 1922, all ballots and ballot boxes have been held in the hands of the court of civil appeals since that time. When the grand jury sitting at the last term of court was empaneled, they were instructed to investigate the alleged frauds but it was found the ballots could not be released from the court of civil appeals because of a writ of error having been filed with the state court and the "battle of the ballots" was continued.

The investigation revolves around the office of sheriff of the county, W. F. Johnson claiming he was legally elected to the office.

The raid was far from being a hoax as Sheriff W. C. McGee and other Guadalupe county officers would have the public believe, said Hamer. And to back up his assertion, the ranger captain said two of the three men who have been arrested as result of the raid are deputy sheriffs of Guadalupe county.

SAN ANTONIO, June 14.—The woman principal in a "love injunction" case here was denied a divorce in district court after a witness testified he had seen a corset and silk undergarments of a woman in an automobile the day after it was occupied by the plaintiff and her employer.

The divorce suit followed the arrest of an infidel on the plea of Henry Bauderer against Otto Witte, employer of Bauderer's wife, enjoining Witte from associating with Mrs. Bauderer except during business hours and then on business matters only. It was alleged that Mrs. Bauderer and Witte frequently took automobile rides together. Bauderer is an invalid.

FOG PREVENTS GOTHAM TO COLUMBUS FLIGHT

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., June 14.—Fog today prevented the take-off of Major William N. Hensley, Jr., and Lieutenant Elliott for Columbus, Nebraska in a DeHavilland plane. "It's a great disappointment," Hensley said. "I'd hoped to be in Columbus for dinner with my father and mother tonight."

SPEED DEMONS INVITED TO TRY OUT COURSE

AMARILLO, Texas, June 14.—This city has become the speed demon's paradise. This is the place where the "driving fool" can turn up the old bus with out any danger of being molested by the law. Grading has just been completed on the new Tri-State exposition race track, and officials of the exposition have invited motorists to try out the new speedway at any time and any speed. The track has to be packed in time for the races June 14, and driving automobiles over it does the job in good shape.

HOW A CASH GIRL BECAME A DESIGNER

BECAME A DESIGNER
Martha Martin was a little cash girl in a big city department store. Her dream was to create the materials her duty was to carry the materials that people bought at the dress goods counter back to the main desk in the center aisle to be wrapped and to obtain their change for them. It made Martha very sad sometimes to look at all the lovely colors in the bolts of material, the pinks and lavenders and soft greens and blues which could be made up into such beautiful dresses. She had to wear a black dress herself. It was the store uniform. And even if she had been allowed to wear gayer colors, she had little money with which to buy fancy dresses.

herself. Even though the drawings were poor, the designs were very clever.

grouch on everybody in the world and was only waiting to find someone on whom to display her temper. She snatched the book from Martha and cried, "So that's what you've been doing instead of running errands for me. No wonder you're so slow. I'll just take these to the floorwalker and then I guess we'll see what happens to you!" And the woman

"Gee, I'll probably get fired," said Martha sadly. "I didn't mean to take the store's time, but I couldn't help putting down ideas when I got them." Just then she saw a woman and a little girl stop before the brown linen. The girl was telling her mother she would like to have the dress of the material, but she didn't know how to have it made up. For getting herself, Martha cried, "Oh, it would make the prettiest middle suit with white braid and a red stripe on the sleeve! I could draw you a picture!"

She stopped, her heart in her shoes. There stood not only the floorwalker with her book in her hand, but the manager of the store himself. It was the manager who spoke.

"I've been looking at your sketches," he said. "It seems to me we had an expert in this department who could design dresses for the people who do not know how to make up the materials, it would be a fine advertising feature. If you would like to go to night school at the art academy and study costume designing, I will be glad to pay your tuition for the service you will do the store."

Odds and Ends and Comments on Our Morning Mail

Master plumbers are to meet in West Baden for their annual convention. In that small Hoosier model of an earlier Baden are spring-famed for their medicinal properties. Perhaps the showers will be able to wash away working cares in the pleasant waters of this western spot, but it does seem that the mechanical adjuncts of the springs may tempt expression of professional interest. When the expert eye lights upon nature's bubbling fountains will it not see possibilities of new-fangled contrivances for harnessing the flow?

If the plumbers are hard-pressed to make 'em day they might celebrate the tremendous exploit of Adam Thompson, maker of the first American bathtub. December 20, 1842, was an eventful day for Mr. Thompson, for Americans in general and plumbers in particular the invention of that Mr. Thompson filled bathtub, a coffin-shaped masterpiece of cold mahogany. He had his moment to decide, and then he took the step that forever plunged us into the power of plumbers. Oh, what a splash was there, my countrymen. Then you and I, and all of us fell in.

Mr. Thompson was at the very center of the disturbance, but ripples of excitement stirred the whole country. Imitators were told their names would soon disappear from city directories—all sorts of dread diseases were seen in the watery depths of the bathtub. Legislation was passed against using cold water for bathing. Three years after the installation of the first bathtub, Boston made bathing unlawful except on the advice of a doctor.

Thompson made the splash heard round the world. Let every true plumber salute his memory in a flowing beaker of aqua pura, the draft in character with the filling of the pioneer bathtub. And why not a refreshing note, preferably with liquid notes? A flowing tub can invite as much music as a flowing bowl.

Nature never looks. She is forever tearing down in one place and building up in another, the two activities being one.

Water, falling from the clouds and working its way back to the sea, wears down mountains and carries them and the best soil of the plains along with it to the ocean.

Dr. Lewis M. Haupt says in a speech that sand is filling up some American harbors and channels faster than it can be removed by dredging. The purpose probably is to compel man to keep on working. Most of our progress is the result of trying to dodge work or make it easier.

The right of tenement children to play in their backyards is upheld by the New York state supreme court, appeals division. It had been claimed that the kiddies were trespassing. That such a thing has to be taken to court is a clear-cut picture of metropolitan "civilization."

Allies have disappeared. Backyards are vanishing. Streets are perilous. Where can the children play? They are getting a rotten deal. Parks are too few, too far away.

Waken to an insidious danger. Radio censorship has begun.

Oiga Petrova, the actress, was talking from an eastern broadcasting station. In the middle of her talk, the microphone was disconnected and her speech ended abruptly. She says the studio director told her that "what I was talking was too strong for the public."

This is the usual plea set forth to justify censorship. Imagine, just one man talking to himself to decide what millions should or should not hear. Radio censorship would be a far worse monopoly than any corner on mechanical patents. Nip it in the bud.

This country of ours spent over $6 billion dollars in March. That's shown by bank checks sent through the clearing houses. In three weeks America has cleared up checks to pay off the entire national debt.

There is absolutely no excuse for poverty in the midst of such fabulous wealth.

Consols, Italian government securities, sold as low as 68 in 1918. Recently they went above par, 100, which is face value.

The reason? Italy still has her enormous war debt. But, under Mussolini's wise financial leadership she is economizing, paring expenses. That looks good for the future, so consols advanced.

The real danger and problem in Europe is government spending, rather than debts already incurred. A government's credit is exactly like an individual's. And when a man—however heavily in debt from foolish spending—shows signs of coming to his senses, his standing rises.

More than 4000 new laws have been passed so far this year by the legislatures of 10 states.

We have too many laws, too many lawyers.

The nation has a feeble-minded halucination that prompts it, as soon as a problem of any sort rises, to try to solve it by a new law. How many problems, tackled by creation of new statutes, would be solved sooner and better by leaving them to the natural laws such as cause and effect? Fetch an adding machine.

Another thing we need is a house-cleaning statute. Look at the mess on the obsolete laws useful only as a roadblock for delay.

A large part of the appropriations made by congress are annual appropriations, intended only to cover the running expenses of the government during a specific year.

POLITICAL LEADERS EXTEND HORN OF PLENTY TO EVERYONE WHO VOTES

Cleveland was kept bone dry during the republican convention. Federal Commissioner Roy Haynes is a citizen of Ohio and he was there to show his fellow countrymen that prohibition can be enforced even at convention time. Thirty-four pro agents were kept in Cleveland by the state prohibition commissioner and the federal government sent a small army of enforcing officers there to prevent violation of the Volstead act.

On the surface Cleveland was dry. Under surface and behind the scenes it was a bit moist. There are wine cellars owned by wealthy men in the city of Cleveland. Those wealthy men are for the most part politicians, and if a gentleman sees fit to invite a friend to his wine cellar on his own premises it is his funeral if he is caught. There are but few funerals of that kind among the rich and powerful.

Newspaper correspondents, who cover all the big conventions, are total abstainers for the most part and would not know a wine cellar if one of their members stumbled into it. They are very much like Dr. Atticus Webb of Texas. They know the smell but not the taste of that intoxicant.

For argument's sake, let us admit that Cleveland, as a convention city, was as dry as a bat's cage. This is as it should have been. All the political leaders of America, with a few exceptions, are for prohibition, they are for law enforcement, they are for equal suffrage, they are for all the rights the women demand, they are for financial relief for the farmer, they are for higher wages for the laborer, they are for low freight rates for the shippers, they are for high dividends for those who own railroad stocks and bonds, they are for taxes cut to the bone and for the largest appropriations that congress can make.

And lastly and chiefly they are for the ballots of their countrymen on election day. This is the jelly-fish age and a vast number of national lawmakers are equipped with jelly-fish back bones and torpid livers.

ANOTHER BUNK LAW

Congress enacted another bunk corrupt practices act. It provides for full publicity and limitation of campaign contributions. Campaign expenditures are limited under the act to ten thousand dollars for senators and twenty-five hundred dollars for a representative, or three cents for every vote cast at the last general election, provided the total amount does not exceed twenty-five thousand dollars for a senator or five thousand dollars for a representative. State laws, which fix lower amounts, supersede the act.

No national bank or corporation could make the contribution to any campaign under this act. Violation of this act is penalized by a fine of ten thousand dollars, or two years in prison. Newberry of Michigan spent his own money and captured a seat in the senate. He was branded as an unfit and cast out. A friendly supreme court decision saved him from the penitentiary. The public demanded a victim and Newberry was made the goat. There should be one law for all. If the friends of a candidate violate the corrupt practices act why shouldn't they be sent to the penitentiary?

SENATOR SHEPPARD

Senator Morris Sheppard is a candidate for re-election. He is coming home to make speeches. He will open at Marlin in July.

It was different four years ago. Both the senators and all the congressmen avoided Texas.

There was a bitter row on then between the followers of Woodrow Wilson and the followers of Joseph Weldon Bailey. What happened is ancient history. Pat Morris Neff jumped in and captured the bacon. Joseph Weldon Bailey has retired from political strife. Woodrow Wilson is in his grave, and William Gibbs McAdoo is in New York City directing his own campaign.

LA FOLLETTE AND HIS DEMANDS

Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin is a republican. He does not perform like a regular republican but he trains under the party banners. He demanded that Congress be summoned into extra session in July, that Harry M. Daugherty should be kicked out of the party and that Albert B. Fall should be repudiated by the party. Fall is as dead as a dead herring. Daugherty isn't. He is seeking vindication. A man of nerve.

Quillen's Paragraphs

If Hermes really tours America, he is happily equipped to escape hand-shaking.

When the saleswoman calls it a "simple little thing," that generally means $10 more.

Every woman who isn't invited to a party got up to spite her knows how Japan feels.

The civilized countries are those in which women must pay more for the beads they wear.

The slow tottering of civilization seems to affect almost everything except the appropriation bills.

We are becoming so effeminate that less than 5 per cent of the boys you see have toes wrapped up.

Another youthful illusion blasted. A returning tourist tells us that Rome is not lighted by Roman candles.

The old-fashioned graduate who started at the bottom now has a son who starts with the butlers.

As a public enterprise Muscle Shoals should at least afford a nice reserve for lame ducks.

Among other things that have lost standing in recent years are an ultimatum and a veto.

No girl is really popular if she can have a birthday and get less than five manicure sets.

Human nature is funny; and if there was but one woman left, doubtless Wales would fight to get her.

The method of selecting vice presidents usually indicates a profound faith in the longevity of presidents.

In the case of a curpidor a mile is as bad as a mile.

As a means of getting a short vacation, a cold isn't worth much to anybody except an executive.

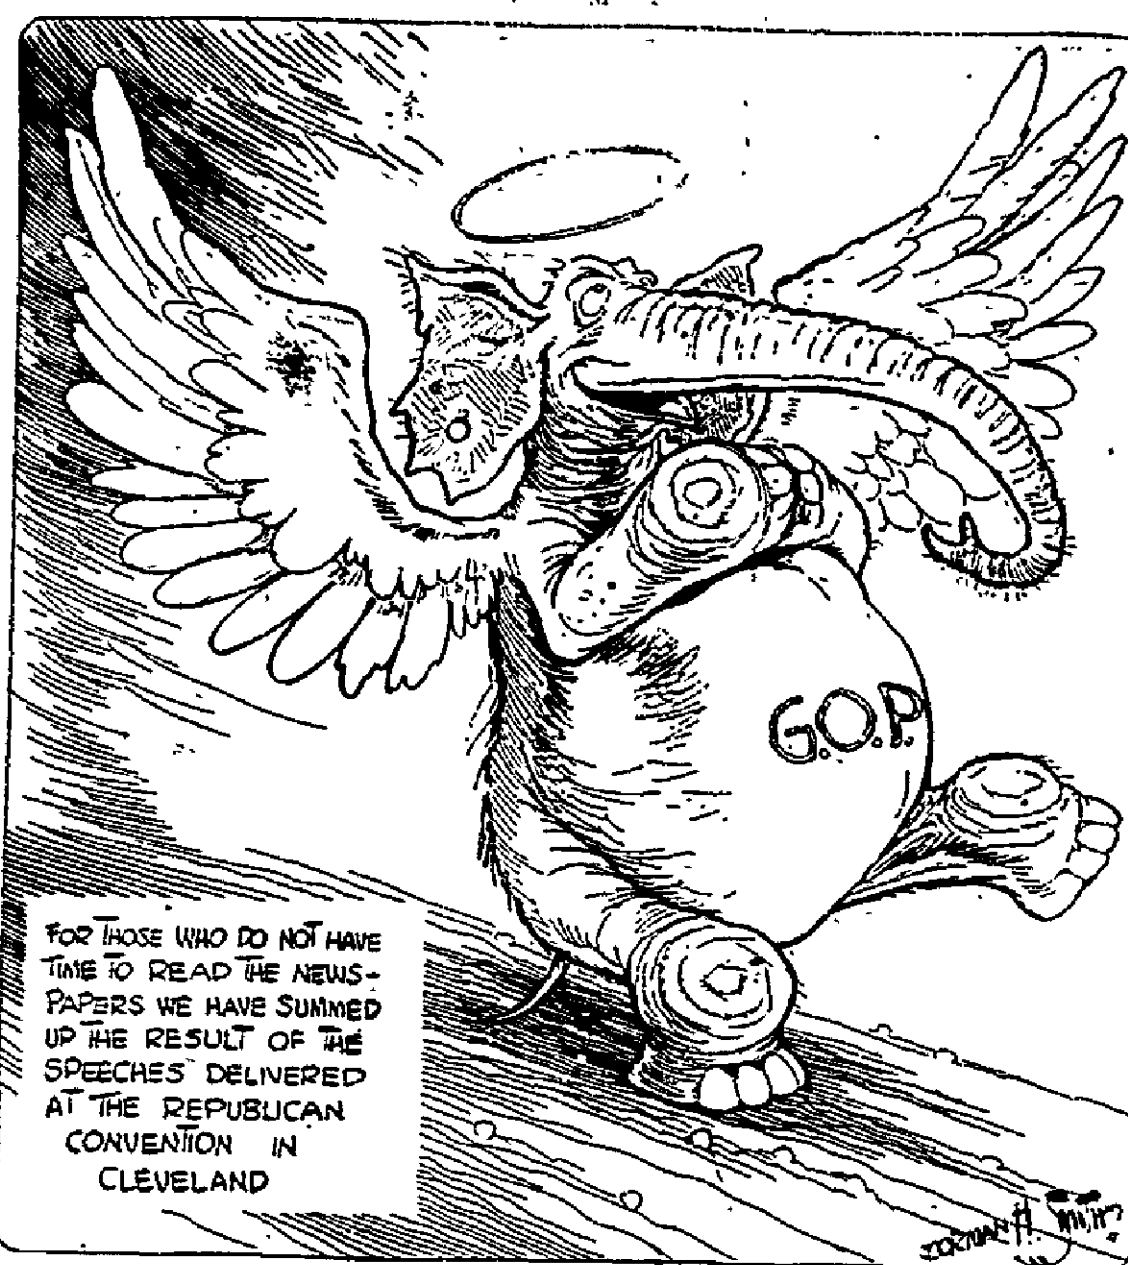

If he gives it back to the people, that's philanthropy. If he gives it to the party, that's an itch to be an ambassador.

Our guess is that the house that Jack built showed evidence of too much jack and not enough knowledge of architecture.

Correct this sentence: "You are kind to invite me," said the college girl. "Let I wish to remain at home and help Mama this summer."

Nothing Succeeds Like—
A salesman, Harry Polansky by name, employed by a company dealing in feathers, sold to Mortimer Cohen, an experienced dealer, a carload of feathers. This was the largest order of its kind the salesman had ever heard about, and he attached a note to the order saying: "I guess this puts a feather in my hat."

The feathers were shipped and a few days later the salesman received from his firm the following letter: "With reference to your order for Mortimer Cohen, we wish to advise that the order has been shipped and received by your customer. We are enclosing herewith three feathers; stick one of them in your hat, and attach one to each shoulder and 'My home; Cohen has failed.'"

"If it took three generations to ripen Greek culture and six months to mature a good crop of alfalfa, how long does it take for the average woman to reach the age of discretion?"

Henry Hemp, contractor: "You can stretch me, mister, I only went to night school, and plumb forgot to study Greek."

J. C. McQuade, osteopath: "Undoubtedly, but if cigarettes affect you that way, why don't you smoke a pipe?"
Hazel Hart, waitress: "Well, I admit I'm not as young as I used to be, young man, but I've still got strength enough to signal a cop when these freshes get too annoying."
Carleton Williams, broker: "It's very unlikely. The market has been very unsettled lately and the only stock that shows any significant activity is St. Vitus' referred."

PROHIBITION AND DRINKING SONGS

Has the Eighteenth Amendment destroyed the light opera industry?

John Phillip Sousa, in his testimony before the House Patents Committee the other day, declared that prohibition had destroyed the light opera industry because it had repressed drinking songs of the rollicking kind and "we can't write them nowadays, apparently the inspiration is lacking."

This is the hub of the whole matter. If we are to declare ourselves permanently for the program of Prohibition we will have to go back and rearrange the traditions of the world. Always drinking has been a merry jest. It has been made one by the youth who are prepared to fling away their lives at the slightest inspiration.

Drinking has interwoven its roots very deeply with the traditions of civilization.

The trouble is that it has been an easy shortcut for the common man to escape from the tragedy of life.

The usual avenue of intoxication have been closed to him. The opportunities for culture and travel and books have been shut in his face by his own limitations. There remains nothing for him to do except to get drunk.

The Eighteenth Amendment

renders it necessary that, if a man shall get out of himself, he shall get up. He can no longer escape by the shortcut of alcohol.

After all the deep issues that underlie the consumption of alcohol are not to be fought out in the exalted plane by the Dr. Builders of society but are to be settled upon the lower plane of the instinct.

Those who love their country cannot resist the feeling of pleasure that the corner drug shop has been closed and that the multitude of them that sought it have been forced to go elsewhere.

There never has been a time when the savings of the country have more increased and its general welfare been more promoted than since the passage of the Prohibition Amendment.

The people know this. They see it before their eyes. It comes home to men's business and becomes a part of their life.

And not all the argument or special pleading of those who are opposed to Prohibition, largely because of the character of those who champion it, will be of any avail.

Eventually it is a question that will be settled by conscience and conscience always speaks for the great number.

Houston Soda Jerkers Incensed at Results

It is all broken about by the criminal stains which adorn napkins, spoons and water glasses after the ever-present flapper with the artificial glow on her lips has patronized the products of the coke jugglers.

Employees of soft drink establishments declare that the number of stains is on the increase and that the spots are growing larger and taken on a deeper hue each day.

Now are the flappers the only ones who make the soda squirt life one round of washing stains from cups, glasses and spoons. If the members

WATCHES SCARCE—IF TAX RECORDS RIGHT

HOUSTON, Texas, June 11.—There are only 25 watches and clocks in Harris county, or one to each 10,000 population, according to tax records.

It is said that the male citizens of the county tell time by gazing at "Old Sol" while the women consult sun dials in the gardens.

Tax records also shatter the boast of Houston bankers that Harris county leads in savings accounts. Only a few scattering accounts, most of them belonging to corporations, are a matter of record in the tax books.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO RUTH ELLINGTON
You have frightened me dreadfully, dear Ruth. You have such an uncompromising way of facing facts. My dear, I had never owned, even to myself, that Karl Whitney had paid out a small fortune to enable me to keep his pearls. Fifteen thousand dollars! Jack will never forgive me, particularly as I sold some of those stones to get him out of trouble. He will have the humiliation of feeling that a man who loved his wife has done this for him. I don't think I can tell him about the pearls, do you dear?

If I do it will keep me very much worried and unhappy, for, Ruth, I shall never feel safe with Alice. I'm sure that a dreadful thing for one to say about one's sister! However, I am sure it is true. I know that Alice would sacrifice me tomorrow if she thought it would not blast her in Karl's eyes. She wants those pearls that Karl gave me, notwithstanding her own string is much longer.

I'd be awfully glad to give them back to her, for I don't want to quarrel with her, and I have an uneasy feeling that those beads will bring me unhappiness yet.

Queer, isn't it, that Karl Whitney should have taken such a way of commemorating his regard for me? As you say, I think he's had really good reason for collecting the pearls and nursing what he considers an unrequited love that he would have done had I married him. He is a dear, sweet thing, though, Ruth, and if you could see the way in which he tries to make Alice happy I am sure you would be as fond of him as I am.

I could like to tell him that if he did not like to tell Alice quite so much there would be a better chance of both of them being happy in this marriage. Indeed, dear, I've told Alice this the other day. I'm starting home day after tomorrow. If you love me, don't let Mother Prescott in the meantime fool around that desk, for as much as I hate to confess it even to you, dear Ruth, there is a secret drawer, and it contains documents that I would not have anyone of this earth see. Into it I have put a great deal of myself. Into it I have written things that I would tell to no one. I hardly think that Mother Prescott would read these things if she found them, except she would probably declare that she did not dream that I knew about the secret drawer and she thought the documents were written by someone else.

I am almost sure that Alice suspects that I lunched with Karl the other day. It sits as uneasy on my conscience as the miner pie I ate at that time did upon my tummy. I think it was a mistake, all of it, including the mince pie, for Karl has seemed unhappy then, ever since that day. I think, however, that because Alice took him to task for leaving her to go to lunch by herself.

I wonder if she is going to be perfectly happy in this marriage of hers? In fact, I wonder if anyone is perfectly happy. I'm not quite sure whether I'm perfectly happy or not, for I do not think I really know what perfect happiness is. Like all other mortals, I only know times of ecstatic bliss, of great exhilaration, and quiet content. Is that enough for anyone, even your friend,

THREE NATURAL ADVANTAGES IN STARTING A NEW BUSINESS

1. PATENT OR COPYRIGHT ON SOME-THING USEFUL

2. SOMETHING NEW WHICH IS ALMOST A NECESSITY

3. LOW COSTS

There are at least five natural advantages which justify starting a business.

One of the best reasons for starting a business is to have some sort of a natural advantage over competitors. Fire of them follow:

1. A patent or copyright on a useful product.

2. A new product which is more or less a necessity.

3. An improvement on something already in use.

4. Something which meets a local, unsatisfied demand.

5. Lower costs than competitors.

This is a representative list of natural advantages and does not attempt to cover them all. It is wise to analyze the prospects of a business, because there are advantages and perhaps your competitor has them.

Pals Awarded Loot Of Bandit Killed in Holdup

GALVESTON, Texas, June 11.—All things being equal, to be held up in a gambling game is not so disastrous after all.

Charles Luczewski held up a poker game in "Fred's Place," and after collecting all the money to be found about the table, started for the exit. He died with a bullet in his body before he reached it.

Ownership of the "Fred man's" gold taken from his body was awarded to those present at the holdup who were defendants in a bill of interpleader filed in justice court to settle all claims for the $2,000 found.

FUN AND FROLIC FEATURE 'FEED'

Ladies Enjoy Visit in Den of Lionism

Complete abandon from routine business and "speech making" marked the annual Lions Club luncheon in honor of the Lionesses held last night at the Plaza and attended by 80 members and guests.

Paper hats, aeroplane balloons, waiters' strikes, inauguration of a third political party, a awarding of a "baby grand" piano, solos and everything but cut and dried dinner speaking were a few of the features used as a panacea against dull care.

The banquet room with the Lion club chairs purple and gold, predominating in the color scheme was artistically decorated. Huge ribbons of purple and gold ran from a common point above the banquet table to the center and even the lights were arranged so as to conform to the color scheme. At each chair was a miniature aeroplane balloon.

Festivities Numerous
The festivities started off with what was thought to be a waiter's strike. It was announced as the banquet dinner was about half served that all cooks and table attendants had struck for higher wages. Noble hearted Lions and Lionesses, notwithstanding the waiter's strike, soon called off when aprons and waiters' coats were donated by the obliging waiters.

Rev. R. R. "Railroad" Yelderman, offered the next sensation when he announced his platform for president of the United States. Stating he was not in conformity with either the democratic or republican party, he was running on his own party independent. The party Rev. Yelderman represented was "John J. Jones" party. His platform was to compromise the candidate was guaranteed 20 per cent of the votes to be cast in the November general election.

Balloon Race Held
Next was the drawing of balloons by the ladies for the grand prize of the evening. Six husky Lions with an inch and a half tops some six feet long dragged the grand prize into the banquet hall. The prize was a "baby grand" Woolworth ten cent piano. George Carter at this juncture made an eloquent speech regarding the merits of the prize.

Solos by Miss Annie Ruth Hain accompanied by Mrs. Ike Burke, Mr. Clifford Hall accompanied by Mrs. Joe Park and Joe Park accompanied by Mrs. Park were enjoyed. Music was enjoyed throughout the evening by Dick People's orchestra.

Rev. Yelderman's campaign for president was managed by Jim Burnham. Those in charge of decorations and arrangement were J. L. Dunn and L. J. Paschal.

WHEAT RIPENED RAPIDLY, REPORT

Prospects Indicate Good Yield For Kansas

TOPEKA, Kan., June 14.—Wheat has ripened rapidly during the hot weather of the last few days and cutting will start in southern Kansas in about a week, according to reports received here. While the crop has deteriorated some from the estimates of May 1, prospects are still that Kansas will have a good yield.

The grain is spotty, promising to yield well in some places while other fields have a poor stand.

Harvest hands are pouring into the state on every train. Most of them are riding the freight trains or taking advantage of reduced rates by railroads. About 40,000 extra hands from the outside state are needed. Wages range from $3.50 to $4.00 plus board and keep.

Harvesting is already under way in Oklahoma and Texas and many with the crop ripening, the army of workers are expected to drift north workers gathering in numbers.

'HARD SUMMER' SEEN
FOR SPOONERS HERE

DALLAS, June 14.—It begins to look like a hard summer for spooners with all roads "poated" against peddlers and cheap peddlers prowling about at night. Warnings have been issued here to all affectionate couples who make love in automobiles parked along the roadsides.

Mayor Blacklock recently stated that "maybe the spooners are not so immoral as some people think," but precautions are good.

CREPE DRESSES
Figured crepe dresses frequently have a cape to match.

RIED PIPER WANTED BY EL PASO OFFICERS

EL PASO, June 14.—A piper who can lead a multitude of cats into oblivion is wanted by City Sanitary Inspector Crosson here.

Neighbors living near a house in one of the suburbs complain of the smell from a number of cats that live in the house. Records of the health department show that a cat's complaint filed some time ago caused an investigation which revealed 30 cats of various breeds and pedigrees guarding four tubs of old bones on the floor.

PEGGY SELLS PAPERS DESPITE DEFORMITIES

EASTLAND, June 14.—"Peggy" Mitchell, local newsie, isn't discouraged even though hard luck recently landed a nallo on him. While playing with some other boys, "Peggy" fell and broke both wrists. Despite this and the fact that he is obliged to walk on one peg leg because of a deformity, "Peggy" is out selling papers.

Charlie Paddock Beaten Badly—Cobb's Tygers in Fracas

Stars to Compete At Paris Will Be Picked Out Today

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Staff Correspondent
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 14.—The cinder path to glory stretches ahead to some four of Uncle Sam's greatest athletes today.

The American team which will sail for Paris aboard the liner America on Monday will be selected tonight. Upon the results of the finals this afternoon depends each athlete's fate.

Yesterday's trials showed there was more than enough talent to go around. The east has the largest representation in the finals, but the middle west and Pacific coast, counting some sure place winners among their standard bearers, are not far behind.

Paddock Has Off Day
Charlie Paddock, "fastest human," failed to qualify in the second round trials of the hundred meter dash at the trials yesterday afternoon. Paddock was beaten by Jackson Scholz, New York flier; Keith Lloyd, U. S. C., and Chet Bowman, Syracuse.

The referee of the meet, which brought out 400 of the best athletes of the United States in competition to win their shields and a trip to Paris for the Olympics decided however, that the contest for third place in this heat had been so close that Paddock should run in the finals today. Paddock's unexpected defeat was the only bit upset of Friday's trials.

Scholz Looks Good
The day dawned with promise of uncertain weather for this afternoon.

It seemed probable that Jackson V. Scholz, who broke the world's record for the 200 meters in early fashion Friday, should be returned a winner in both sprints.

Scholz, who is starting a comeback, is running in wonderful form. H.B. Leony, and Murchison were the most dangerous contenders the former Milwaukee star had to beat.

J. C. Taylor, a team mate of Scholz, was favored to win the 400 meters. He won his heat yesterday in world's record time.

Joie Ritz Doubtful
The 800 meter bout had some sterling competitors in Johnny Waters of Harvard, Ray Watson, I. A. C., and Larry Brown, former Red and Blue star.

The outcome of the 1500 meter was a puzzle with Joie Ritz's condition somewhat in doubt and a formidable field including Lloyd, Hahn, Tommy Cavanaugh, Kerr of Leland Stanford, Ray Barker and Jimmy Connolly, lined up against him.

In the 400 meter hurdles, the middle west, represented by Kenneth Grumman, Hawkins and Ivan Wiley, bids fair to sweep the board.

Skills on His Nose
The 100 meter hurdles found Bob Maxwell and George Krommes from the Pacific coast pitted against Karl Anderson, of Illinois, who fell at the finish yesterday, skinned along on his nose, and was "not another try by the judges."

Records should tumble in the field events, with all the qualifiers in the pole vault safely over the bar at 12 feet, six inches, and no signs of weakening, and the weight men and jumpers coming within inches of world marks.

The time for the first event is 2 p. m.

Members of both teams, and fans who crowded onto the field participated in the melee. When the disorder became so intense that police were unable to clear the playing field, umpires refused to let the game go on.

SHOWS WILLS UP!

Second-Rater, Outweighed 26 Pounds, Demonstrates the Giant Colored Puncher Is Overrated

BARTLEY MADDEN

There will be no fight soon between Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills. Nor is it likely that there will be a fight this summer between Wills and the good senior Firpo.

The Wills boom, once a thunderous, moving thing, has faded to a thin, weak whisper.

And Bartley Madden, second-rate heavyweight, with first-rate fighting heart, is the answer.

Though outweighed by 26 pounds more or less, the New York Irishman, who has been fighting since Harry Vardon was a cadet, withstood a terrific assault from Wills in a 15-round fight and was on his feet, in good shape, at the finish.

The pugilist world now asks this pertinent question: "If Wills could do nothing with a staffed shirt like Madden, what chance would he have against a big fighter?"

Jones, Who Meets Actor Here Monday, Draws National Eye

Actor and Jones
"It's a bill they've been clamoring for for the past three months, and they've got it next Monday night." Will Fort, Jefferson county sports promoter, who came down "to look the situation over," said yesterday on the occasion of his second trip to the city.

"Everything looks like the proverbial million dollar bill," Fort said, "and I have a rather strong hunch that this match is sure going to be one more match."

Jones Draws Attention
Paul Jones, the sensational Houston, Texas, grappler, who during the months since Jan. 1 has stepped into the limelight row and has forced the recognition of the country's leading ring general, is a real sensation. During the time he has made his name famous in the arena at Houston's City Auditorium, Jones has also been making his name a byword of favorable comment in the annals of Doc Heild's wrestling magazine, and in the public forum of wrestling comment, edited by Sport Jones has come to be a weekly topic of discussion.

With more weight he will undoubtedly become one of the country's foremost challengers for the crown title, and so far on the dome of Stranger Ed Lewis, Anyway, Julius Sigel, who seems to know more things about Paul Jones than anybody, has a rather high opinion of him. "He will be a full-fledged man, and he'll make all the boys, including Lewis, take a look at him the second time."

Built more like a boxer than the average wrestler, Jones is a queer sight in the ring. He holds his cleanness strictly to two main points—speed and the hook-kick which he has developed to supremacy. It is his topkick George Actor here Monday night, it will in all probability be the hook-kickers that down the sturdy Greek artist. If he gets the lead on Actor, it will be because Jones is the speedier of the two men.

But Actor has a strong hunch that Jones hasn't got a thing on him when it comes to speed.

Actor Training Hard
In fact, Actor for the past two weeks has been in strenuous training for his match with Jones, which was originally scheduled to be held in Houston on the 16th, and has been using Jack Washburn, former Port Arthur heavyweight, as his training mate for the scrap. Washburn says Actor is in the terrible pink of trim, and that when he steps through the ropes here Monday he will be ready to give the local wrestling followers a real big treat.

Jones needs no more of an introduction to local sports fans than does the Greek star. They're both well-known here; in fact, there are several good fans who recall a hurried trip over to Houston and a long four and a half hour battle that followed, which ended up with Jones being declared victorious.

WALTER LOOKS GOOD
Despite the fact that he had been inactive for months Mickey Walker, the welterweight champion, looked great against Lew Tendler, the Philadelphia veteran in their recent fight. Experts are agreed that Walker is a real champion.

TROTTA WINS
GLENCOVE, N. Y., June 14.—The Trotta, owned by E. Walker Clark of Philadelphia won the historic New York Yacht Club race for schooners.

MEUSEL HIT IN BACK BY COLE

Ruth and Cobb Mix It In Ninth Inning

DETROIT, June 14.—Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb told each other just exactly what's what in the wholesale fracas here yesterday which resulted in Empire Billy Evans forfeiting the game to the Yankees, 9 to 0. The Yankees were leading 10 to 0 in the ninth round when the trouble broke loose.

Started in New York
Police were unable to clear the playing field, so great a jam of players and spectators was there hustling about in high feeling. The real feeling is said to have started back in New York on the last eastern invasion when Rose and McNally mixed it with fists and were put out of the park.

Today the Tigers and Yankees contented themselves with merely glowering at one another in suppressed rage until the ninth when Cole of the Tiger pitching staff slipped a fast one into Meusel's back. Ruth, who had been up just before, was nearly hit twice. Meusel hurried to bat and made a mad rush for Cole, but the umpire stopped him. About that time the players ran to the field, and the big bumbino Ruth met Ty Cobb, charging him with having a bunch of pitchers ordered to "stuff off" the batters. Cobb hurled back a denial.

Meusel Starts It Again
Order was temporarily restored, and Meusel and Cole ejected, when Meusel and Joe Bush started for the Tiger dugout. Meusel is said to have made a swing for one of the Detroiters and Third Baseman Hancy sent back a swing. The fight was on again, police were rushed out, spectators milled over the field about the dugouts, and Umpire Evans saw there wasn't anything to do but forfeit the game to the Yankees.

The same teams play here again today.

THE NUT CRACKER

According to the society news Mr. Dempsey has another ring engagement. This time with Miss Taylor of the movies.

Speaking of the derby, the two Sinclair starters ran like a couple of old cans.

Judge Landis presented Babe Ruth with a diploma the other day and yet some people say judges have no sense of humor.

The man who pitched the first curve ball in the first baseball game was a "baffling bender" is still in the press box.

Carpenter says he is more familiar with American fighting than he used to be. "We imagine," he says, "that a man would say the same thing."

The Duke of York was beaten by a real milner in a real match and the surprising thing about it was that a real milner would play with an ordinary duke.

Not that it is terribly important, but what is Mr. Shaw's record for having the 16-pound rabbit, anyway?

The ex-husband of a grand opera star has taken to prizefighting. "He ought to be used to punishment at least."

A man only reaches physical perfection once in a lifetime. And that's the only time he's fit to be a champion. "He ought to be used to punishment at least."

One doesn't begin to appreciate how completely the romantic was has degenerated until one reads that Arthur Rowland punches have succumbed to polo.

It may be true that the Yankees have the greatest wrecking crew in the history of baseball. "He ought to be used to punishment at least."

All that Fred Fulton demands of a manager is that he experience a certain amount of "tenderness" in carrying him from the ring.

Shooting Squirrels Taught 'Perfect 36' Co-ed to Make 100

LAWRENCE, Kans., June 14.—A perfect 36, with a perfect 100 added, are the records attached to the name of Nevada Talmel, University of Kansas co-ed rifle team captain-elect.

She is the only girl of the Kansas co-ed team to shoot a perfect score in competition. Ten bullets are to her credit at 50 feet in a match shoot against the University of Missouri team.

Miss Talmel got her habit of shooting straight by hunting squirrels in the tall trees on her father's farm near Altamont, Kan. She has the "cool gray eye," said to be essential to a good marksman, or man, for that matter.

She is a typical example of the modern girl, bobbed hair and everything—including the perfect thirty-six.

Goodman May Take Crown Off Goldstein

CLEVELAND, June 13.—The present ruler of the bantamweight division is a Jewish battler, one Abe Goldstein.

The next ruler of the division may be a Jewish boy, too, namely Charlie Goodman, Jake Goldstein, Goodman is a New Yorker.

Goodman stepped to national fame overnight by knocking out Carl Tremaine, local star, in seven rounds in a recent bout.

Goodman connected with a short right jolt to the jaw and Tremaine dropped like a load of brick.

What Goodman lacks in cleverness he makes up for in durability and offensive ability. He is one of Goldstein's real rivals.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Nancy and Nick and Johnny Jump over for the mice. Those houses you see are dairies where they make the cheese.

"Star," said Johnny Jump Up admiringly, "you know a lot, don't you, Mister Stork? Why, you are better than a geography book."

"Seeing the world is always better than studying a book," said the stork wisely, "and I am a much-traveled person."

"Are we much-traveled persons?" asked Nancy curiously.

"Well," said the stork thoughtfully, "I should say you were. And by the time my friend the timonose takes you to some more countries you ought to know enough to get into college. Oh high school, anyway."

"What's that wall for?" asked Nick, pointing down to a place where the land stopped and the sea began.

"A high wall run along the shore, as far as they could see."

"We're at the seashore, and that's a dyke," said the stork. "The sea came up and spoiled the land sometimes and the people couldn't make things grow. So they built this dyke many years ago to keep the sea out. You'll never see another one anywhere just like it. But we must go. The timonose will be waiting for you on the roof to take you home."

And, sure enough, there he was. "Your ticks said 'there and back,'" he remarked, "so we must be returning to the magic garden."

"Goodbye," they said to the stork, hoping all three of them, on the plump little bird's back.

Away they flew, over the ocean toward the sunset, leaving Holland almost—and still have enough left

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle RAY

Chaining a Monstrous Wolf

One night the gods and goddesses were awakened by a dreadful howling. It was the Fenris Wolf, a monster which was prowling around not far from the edges of heaven.

"The wolf is hungry," said Tyr, the war-god, "I'll go and feed him so he'll quit that noise and we can sleep."

Taking up great hunks of meat, he went boldly to the Fenris Wolf and fed him. Thus kept the beast quiet the rest of the night.

Next morning, the gods and goddesses got together to talk over the problem. They knew the wolf would grow bigger and bigger. They feared he might steal in some night and do them harm.

It was decided to chain him up. Tyr placed a strong chain around the monster, but he simply stretched himself a little and broke it to bits.

A stronger chain was forged, but this also was shattered.

"We'll have to ask the Black Elves to help us," said Odin. "Skrirnir, you go and tell them what we want."

Skrirnir was a servant of the summer god. He was young, strong, and faithful. Going to the Black Elves, he obtained a chain for the Fenris Wolf.

What a chain it was! As light as silk, as thin as a thread!

The gods could hardly believe such a chain would bind the wolf.

The wolf saw the tiny chain, and thought there must be magic in it. He would not let himself be bound at first but Tyr calmed him.

The golden cord was tied around the beast's neck and legs. He struggled to get free, but it was no use. The harder he tried, the tighter he was held.

He was placed between two mighty rocks.

After the Fenris Wolf was bound, he howled more and more and kept many a tired god awake at night; but he was no longer a danger—at least not until the last battle, when everyone knew would come some day.

A Real Flower Girl

It was the day before Cousin Alice's wedding, and everybody in the pretty little house was rushing around and running into every one else.

"I guess we're just in the way," giggled Betty Cut-out to Margie. They were to be the two flower girls at the wedding. "About ten people have nearly knocked me over, everywhere I go!"

"I know what let's do," cried Margie. "There's a field at the end of this street that's just full of daisies. Let's go down and pick a lot to help decorate the house. I heard Aunt Edna saying she wished she'd had time to get some more flowers. We'll show them we're regular flower girls."

Betty was wearing a lavender dress and lavender hat to pick flowers in. Tomorrow in the wedding, and then you'll see her in the prettiest dress yet.
